OWN.SHARE.CONNECT.

Meagan is the author of the award-winning book, "Creating Your Heaven on Earth," and "Courage: Agreeing to Disagree Is Not Enough." Her third book is forthcoming and will be published in January 2023 with New Degree Press.

Meagan has spoken to thousands of people at live events since 2008, including alongside internationally recognized spiritual leaders such as don Miguel Ruiz, author of the best-selling book, "The Four Agreements," and she has appeared multiple times in local and national media. Meagan even received a personal note from Desmond Tutu after hearing a talk of hers on forgiveness.

Meagan is passionate about creating connections through storytelling as a way to overcome differences and generate healing. For the last decade, she has been a significant voice for the LGBTQ community in Mississippi, speaking with pastors, university representatives and classes, on the radio, and on the news as a voice offering unity and cooperation. Meagan now lives with her wife, Clare, and their daughter, Merit, in Starkville, Mississippi.

Testimonials

"Meagan lives the way she speaks and facilitates: sincerely. Her words come from her heart, and are arranged courageously in compelling stories and interactive sessions that awaken participants to what's real for them."

Teju RaviLochan, Founder, GatherFor

"The topic of vulnerable storytelling struck a chord across multiple resource groups and audiences within the Red Cross. I loved Meagan's talk on a very personal level. We are excited about the possibility of further training we can provide our staff and volunteers where they can format their own story through Meagan's method. Her presentation was moving and we all raved about her talk for weeks."
